THE EAGLE NEWSLETTER

SEPTEMBER 2011 Eagle ~ V. 472

It's been ten years since the horror and tragedy of 9/11. I'm including my response that was written back in 2001. I noted that out of this terrible tragedy some good had occurred. It united our nation in a way that we had not seen for a very long time. Unfortunately it didn't last. Right now our nation is divided, and it seems that everyone is thinking only of themselves. The politicians in Washington are more concerned with bringing the other party down than in doing what is best for our country. In the midst of all this name calling and finger pointing is the additional disturbing news that more and more Americans are not sure of what they believe.

As one person I'm don't know what I can do to improve our politics, but I can address the issue of what we believe. Therefore this fall we will look anew at what we believe, and I hope when it's all said and done that you will have a greater understanding of our Christian faith, and a deeper commitment to our Lord Jesus Christ.

One way to get at knowing what we believe is to ask questions and then to discover the answers. However before I ask the first question you need some background information.

After the death, and Resurrection of our Lord the church was born on Pentecost. Now, these early Christians entered a world that was full of religions. There were many gods and many different ways that people practiced religion. Here's the first question for you to ponder. There was one characteristic of the early Christians that set them apart from the other religions of that time. Question number one - Do you know what that characteristic was that set them apart? Starting on September the 17th and 18th we will find the answer to that question. Remember our theme for this series is found in two questions.

1. Do you know what you believe?
2. Do you believe what you know?

See you in church!
God's Peace, PM

THE EAGLE NEWSLETTER
OCTOBER 2001

A NOTE FROM THE PASTOR:

Vol. 354

SEPTEMBER 11, 2001.

The pictures of this terrible tragedy are shown over and over again. We wonder what is next. We look for ways to help. I've heard it said that, in time, we would get over this terrible tragedy. That's not the way it's going to work. We'll never get over this, but we will get through it! We'll get through it by turning to God and one another for support.

On Monday morning I was at Romeo High school. About a hundred students were gathered round the flagpole for Morning Prayer. I told them that we are now at war. People die in war. As a pastor and hospital chaplain I've witnessed a lot of dying. And you know there is something worse than death. That is to live life without meaning. In last Sunday's sermon I shared with the congregation that even as we painfully feel this great loss there is Good News. Our God is one who seeks and finds the lost.

Those who were killed in this national tragedy have already been found by God, and now rest in God's hands. We are the ones now suffering. During this time of pain and confusion we must not allow terrorists to turn us into a nation that feeds on despair, hatred, and vengeance. In 1st Corinthians, Chapter 13, St. Paul talks about the power of love. Paul tells us that love does not rejoice in injustice, but rejoices when right and truth prevail. In the struggle, which our country is about to undertake, let us be a voice that calls for truth, justice, and yes love. God bless our nation. Let us offer our prayers to those in our country and in the sixty other countries who lost their people in this cowardly attack.

Yes, we have suffered a great loss, but we now have the opportunity to regain our soul.

*God's Peace,
Pastor Mark*

Worship Themes and Texts September, 2011

September 3-4 Labor Day

Theme – So how do you like your job?

Lessons – Isaiah 65:17-25 - Psalm 127-

Key Text – Philippians 2:12-18 - John 5:15-17

Prayer of the Day

Lord, help us to understand that what we call work is more than a job and more than the labor of our hands. For you have called us to be more than a pay check, and more than a degree.

We are followers of Jesus and his "job" for us is to love, to care, and to serve others as He has served us. Amen

September 10-11 We remember and honor those who died on 9/11

Theme – Try to Remember

Lessons – Key Text - Proverbs 10:7 - Psalm 133

Matthew 26:6-13

Prayer of the Day

Lord, plunge us into a sense of sadness at the pain of our brothers and sisters inflicted by war, the bombing of terrorists, prejudice, injustice, and indifference. May we learn to cry as a child until our tears baptize us into persons who touch with loving care the victims of violence, greed, anger and hatred. In the name of Jesus. Amen

September 17-18

Theme – Do you know what you believe?

Lessons – Jeremiah 31:31-34 - Psalm 119:33-40 - Ephesians 6:13-18 Key Text - John 7:14-19

Prayer of the Day

O God grant us the grace to wrestle with the mystery that is You. Inspire us when we feel as if we cannot go on to face with you the questions we must ask if we are ever to know what we truly believe. In the name of Jesus who is the answer. Amen

September 24-25

Theme – Do you know what you believe?

Lessons – Isaiah 53:1-8 Psalm 146 1 Corinthians 1:18-23

Key Text Luke 1:1-4

Prayer of the Day

Teach us your ways Lord, that we may be open to the same Spirit that moved over the face of the waters in the first day of creation, and moves over the chaos of this time. We sorely need to make sense of this world and we only do this by knowing you and what you would have us believe. In the name of Jesus. Amen

HIS TABLE

* Important note: We may need to cancel our help with this project due to lack of participation. Please consider helping just one month a year.

♥ Every third Tuesday of the month we will be joining the United Methodist Church in Romeo in serving a free meal to the community. We need three to five volunteers for each service day. The meal is served from 5:30 to 6:30 p.m. at United Methodist. Food can be prepared here and transported to United Methodist or prepared there. All food will be paid for by St. John from our Community Outreach budget. Currently the program is serving 40 meals and 4 to 5 delivered meals to shut ins. There is a sign up sheet in the gathering area if you are interested in participating. Total time invested would be about 5 hours.

♥ PAYING IT FORWARD ♥

Funds from bottles and cans collected in the hallway will now go towards "His Table" (see next page). You may also donate, if you like, with a special envelope marked "His Table". Thank you!

St. John Lutheran will be training another class of Stephen Ministers this fall. If God gave you the gifts for caring, encouragement and listening, please begin to prayerfully consider whether you might want to be part of this exciting ministry. If you think you might be interested, or just have questions, talk with one of our Stephen Ministry Leaders (Jan Alling, Jan Gallagher, Bob or Jan Gallardo, Jerry Foor), Pastor Mark or call the church office.

OJT = IMT

you hear a lot these days about on-the-job training or OJT. This is training that is very specific to the job one is going to do. Stephen Ministry offers IMT: in-ministry training. No matter what kind of training you've had before.

It is not necessary to have a "care receiver" if you participate in the Stephen Minister training. This can be a valuable tool to help you understand others better. This can be a tool for you to learn to "hear" what someone is saying and feeling with care and compassion. Stephen Ministry survives by being focused on confidentiality, both within the relationships we have and those we minister to.

Stephen Ministry training, costs only your time and commitment to spend 50 hours with a small group, doing some role playing, talking about life issues, and learning how to listen. There will be plenty of laughs, some treats, and lots of personal growth. There is no charge for the class or books you will receive.

We are all doing so much, going so many places, trying to get so much done, Stephen Ministry training will help you put in perspective some of life's trial and error events of daily life.

A new class will form in September, meeting once a week for about 2 hours, on a day that works best for those taking the class. The class schedule is flexible taking into consideration work schedules and children. There is no test afterward, no homework beside some reading, just guaranteed spiritual and personal growth and a chance to interact with one of the most caring and compassionate groups of St John's church.

Is God calling you to find out more about becoming a Stephen Minister? Contact the church office today for more information, Pastor Mark, or one of our Stephen Leaders. Jan or Bob Gallardo, Jan Gallagher, or myself.

God's peace,

Jan Alling

When Those In Need Are Right Next Door

MITCH ALBOM sees we don't have to go far to help others

Thursday night, inside a huge, decaying Detroit church, two worlds were nudging each other like kids sharing a bed.

On one side was a movie set. A TV film was being shot of my book "Have A Little Faith," and massive cameras, cranes and monitors - not to mention more than 100 workers, from actors to set designers - were clamoring about the sanctuary, applying makeup, erecting lights.

On the other side, inside the gym, some three dozen homeless men were bedding down for the night.

It could not have been more surreal. I Am My Brother's Keeper Ministries on Brainard houses the homeless three nights a week, Thursday being one of those nights. And on this Thursday, the unshaven men in raggedy clothes didn't care if huge trucks and giant lights were jamming the streets around the church. This was their routine. And they needed a place to sleep.

So they entered through the side door, as always, and they stepped aside for production assistants or prop guys or costume designers. The movie people went to the right, the homeless went to the left.

"How ya doing?" they said to each other.

And each side went about its business.

Reality check

This went on for several hours. The movie was shooting a joyous scene from the book - a celebration service. Big-name actors took their place alongside actual congregants of the church (the film is, admirably, using many real-life people on-screen). An organ played. A drummer kept a beat. The director yelled, "Action!" and an "Amen" chorus broke out.

Meanwhile, on the other side of the wall, the homeless men dragged vinyl mats and lightweight blankets and placed them in rows on the gym floor.

I found myself wandering between the two scenes. They were separated only by a narrow vestibule. At one point, the movie had to reset all the cameras, and the workers spilled outside and grabbed food and drink from the catering tents and vans.

I had some, too. And then, in the middle of a bite, I had one of those moments. I had to remind myself to swallow. I wandered into the catering area, amidst shelves stacked high with snack food, and grabbed big boxes of Nutter Butters, Chips Ahoy and Twinkies.

And I went to the gym.

You can pretty much figure out the rest, including the gratitude of the men offered a midnight snack. "I'll take a Twinkie." "You got any Ho Hos?" "Thank you, man." "God bless you, man."

Out in the street, the movie makers were chewing quickly. Inside, the homeless were eating, too. Twenty minutes later, the crew returned to the sanctuary and the weary men lay down and closed their eyes.

It got noisy on the right.

It got quiet on the left.

Bridge the gap

The movie folks have been extremely generous to the church, paying a large rental fee, doing repairs, employing many congregants who would not otherwise see such paychecks. And they are sharing the church's inspiring story with the world.

But there is something to be learned from that surreal moment Thursday night. I know it. I felt it the moment I was eating and they were not.

In many ways, our city is just a big scale version of that scene. Our haves and have-nots live so close to each other. The two sides of 8 Mile. The Grosse Pointe-Detroit border. Many of us need not go far to share the bounty of our lives with people less fortunate. And yet we rarely do.

We stick to our side. They stick to theirs.

It needn't be that way. It's actually pretty easy to share food with hungry people. It's pretty easy to share your skills, your time, your talent. The hardest part is crossing between worlds. We are afraid. We are unsure. We don't have the time. Or we tell ourselves we don't.

I know it's rarely as easy as walking from one side of a church to the other. But we can reach out to others over our normal boundaries. In a place called I Am My Brothers Keeper, it was fitting to witness the power of those words.
